Biography

Mark D. Eastburn joined Eastburn and Gray in 2018. He practices in the areas of criminal defense, litigation, municipal law, and land use and zoning law.

Mark routinely represents clients charged with criminal offenses before the Courts of Common Pleas and Magisterial District Courts in Bucks and Montgomery Counties. While Mark often represents clients charged with a variety of felony and misdemeanor offenses, he most frequently represents clients in the defense of driving under the influence ("DUI") charges, narcotics offenses, and juveniles accused of crimes. Mark has also successfully handled probation and parole violations, traffic and non-traffic citations, and expungements on behalf of his clients.

Mark frequently represents individuals and businesses in a variety of litigation matters, including business disputes, breach of contract actions, and real estate disputes. He has appeared before the judges of the Courts of Common Pleas, Magisterial District Courts, and arbitration panels on these matters. He has also appeared on behalf of private and institutional clients before zoning hearing boards and municipal governing bodies in a variety of land use and zoning matters, including applications for variances, conditional uses, and special exceptions. Mark routinely files and responds to right-to-know requests on behalf of private and municipal clients.

All facets of Mark's practice utilize the trial advocacy skills that he developed during his service as an Assistant District Attorney in Bucks County, where he conducted trials and hearings before juries and judges. Mark uses this experience to advocate and achieve positive results for his clients.
