Biography

Bill enjoys a wide variety of practice areas but focuses primarily upon resolving disputes between people, businesses and municipalities. He is highly experienced in trying cases before judges, juries and arbitration panels as well as arguing cases up through the appellate courts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

When meeting with a prospective client or handling a new matter for an existing client, his focus is and has always been on identifying the core issues so that matters are handled in the most efficient and cost-effective manner. Whether by way of settlement or trial, the best interests of his clients remain his priority.

Representative matters include:

- Defended and secured a complete verdict for a person who was wrongfully alleged as owing over $900,000 on another person's obligation.
- Obtained preliminary dismissal of a former spouse's attempt to disgorge over $50,000 in child support payments to the custodial parent.
- Settled a matter for in excess of $100,000 for a couple whose home had suffered from poor construction practices.
- Prevailed upon an attempt to interfere with a small municipality's right to preserve and improve its quaint downtown commercial district.

As part of his trial practice, Bill devotes a significant amount of his time and services to pro bono matters through the Bucks County Bar Association and Legal Aid of Southeastern Pennsylvania.
